In keeping with our Bookweek theme this week, here are some thoughts to consider about reading at home.

- Reading provides ideas helping the creative process of writing.
- Reading builds knowledge—knowledge is power.
- Model reading to be a purposeful/essential life skill.
- Model reading to be an enjoyable way to spend free time.
- Read everyday with your child—even when they can read themselves...
  Just 10 minutes will make a difference.
You Can Do It:
Students will be able to state:
1. the meaning of the term “consequences”
2. that solutions to problems can have both positive and negative consequences

RULES & RESPONSIBILITIES:
1. Respond to directions
2. Follow instructions
3. Sit quietly in bus line, when eating, lining up

A consequence is something that happens after your child behaves in a particular way. A consequence can be positive or negative.

So it’s always best to focus more on giving your child attention for behaving in ways that you like. This usually means you’ll need to use negative consequences less.

No matter how old your children are, your praise and encouragement will help them feel good about themselves. This boosts their self-esteem and confidence. Sometimes rewards can be useful too, especially if you want to encourage good behaviour.

Rules and limits are important for guiding children’s behaviour

Children need to know what you expect of them in order to behave appropriately. This does not mean giving children lots of dos and don’ts – having too many rules, or rules that are too complicated, often confuse children. It is often helpful to involve children in setting some basic rules. This helps them understand the value of having rules and motivates them to cooperate. For example, you might discuss as a family the sorts of rules that will help you all get on well together. These might include things like talking to each other rather than shouting, asking before borrowing things, putting away games and toys after playing with them, or taking a turn to wash up after dinner. Deciding as a family those things that are most important to you and stating rules positively so that children know what to do rather than simply being told what not to do works best.

Set limits

Set limits for children by giving clear directions for what you expect of them. Providing reasons for the directions you give helps children accept your limits without becoming defensive. It also gives them a basis for understanding what you will expect of them in other similar situations.

CITIZENSHIP & ACHIEVEMENT AWARD
Kindly sponsored by the Toogoolawah IGA.

Alaister Embrey
This week Alaister Embrey is congratulated on being awarded the student of the week.

Alaister has received this award for consistently demonstrating a positive attitude towards his work and when working with others. On many occasions, Alaister has volunteered to assist with covering the supervision of the sports shed during lunch times and has shown an impressive ability to be flexible and problem solve when working in a group. His ‘can-do’ attitude when attempting challenging tasks or participating in leadership opportunities is a quality that is appreciated by both his peers and by his teachers.

Congratulations Alaister!

Queensland Music Festival (Arts Link – Qld)

presents

Starstruck is a show for all ages bringing the culture and science of the land together through exploring the astronomy of the Northern and Southern constellations.

Choreographer/Producer Liz Lea worked with astronomers and scientists based at Mount Stromlo Observatory to develop this work in association with AusDance. Through contemporary dance, sound and film, this production brings an innovative insight to the science of the stars and our skies, black holes, exploding stars and observing new galaxies.

Liz Lea is a performer and choreographer who directs Liz Lea Dance and Canberra Dance Theatre. She trained at London Contemporary Dance School, Akademi in London and Darpana Academy in India. Liz has worked for the Royal Opera House and English National Opera, and was Choreographer in Residence at CSIRO Discovery and directed the first DANscienCE symposium.

Book Week 2016

Thank you to our school community for celebrating Book Week this year. Everyone looked wonderful dressed as a host of book characters and iconic Australian people and animals, incorporating the theme of Australia: Story Country. Well done everyone!!

Students from Toogoolawah State High School joined the town walk and dress-up parade and also helped with the drawing of the names in the book draw. Thank you to Mrs Knight and Mr Phillips for organising the student’s visit and for their help on the day.

Classroom Competition Winners

To highlight the importance of Book Week, students in each class worked on a variety of art activities involving the short-listed books from the Children’s Book Council of Australia. These have been judged and are now being displayed in the library. The winners will be announced on assembly next Monday and presented with their prizes. 1st, 2nd, and 3rd will receive a book prize. Highly Commended will receive a certificate.

Visiting Indigenous Artist—Arthur Conlon

Our celebrations will continue on Thursday and Friday, when indigenous artist, Arthur Conlon, will conduct art workshops with all the classes.

Arthur Conlon is an Aboriginal artist who lives on the Sunshine Coast of Queensland, Australia. Arthur started painting at the age of nine by studying the traditional techniques of his uncles.

He is now a successful artist with his paintings in galleries across Australia and internationally. Arthur’s designs have been inspired by his experiences in the lands of the Waka Waka people of Queensland and the flora and fauna of the Gubbi Gubbi (Kabi Kabi) region in the adjacent area.

He has a long history of visiting schools facilitating art workshops and demonstrations with students from prep to university. He offers step by step drawing and painting techniques for students to create their own artworks.

There will not be a student charge for this activity as it will be funded through the school.
